- The engagement breakdown for NYRE content across Instagram, YouTube, and Facebook indicates that Gen Z (under 18 to 24) and the targeted 18-24 age group collectively contributed 24% of engagement, while Millennials aged 25-34 accounted for 20% of engagement. Interestingly, as mobile video lengths increase, Gen Z and Millennials viewership decrease, with 61% preferring content under 1 minute.

- This preference for shorter content aligns with Gen Z's social media habits. YouTube, especially since the introduction of YouTube Shorts, has attracted a significant Gen Z audience. One year after its 2021 launch, the feature amassed 1.5 billion monthly active users and garnered over 30 billion daily views, per Think with Google Marketing strategies.

VALUE OF SOCIAL COMPONENT IN AD CAMPAIGNS

Compare and contrast the effectiveness and reach of ad campaigns that include social media components with those that don't.

Incremental reach, brand awareness/effectiveness

(General advantages/disadvantages of implementing social content)

ADVANTAGES TARGETING & PERSONALIZATION

Social media platforms offer sophisticated targeting options based on demographics, interests, behaviors, etc., allowing campaigns to reach specific audiences.

- Example: Spotify Wrapped - Wrapped enables Spotify listeners dive deeper into their top listening moments of the year. Personalized graphics are generated for each user and suggested to share on their social media
- Impact: In 2021, Spotify reported 120 million listeners engaged with Wrapped – that's 30 million more than 2020.

Adweek Spotify's 2022 'Wrapped' Curates Listeners' Personality Through Their Favorite Tunes,
November 30, 2022

ADVANTAGES ENGAGEMENT & INTERACTION

Promotes direct engagement with the audience through comments, likes, shares, and direct messages, fostering a sense of community and brand loyalty.

- Example: Aldo - Through website live streams and influencer collaboration, Aldo decided to use influencers to help them tap into a pre-existing engaged audience. They partnered with stylist Mimi Cuttrell and TikToker Nate Wyatt to present their spring 2021 catalog. Cuttrell and Wyatt highlighted their favorite Aldo products, allowing viewers to see items live without ever leaving their homes. Aldo promoted the website livestream on Facebook and Instagram.
- Impact: The event fostered a 308% engagement rate, driving approximately 17,000 page views to the Aldo website in the 5 days following.

ADVANTAGES ANALYTICS & MEASUREMENT

Provides detailed analytics and insights into campaign performance, enabling real-time adjustments for better effectiveness.

- Example: Ben & Jerry's assumed products were most popular during summertime and allocated ad spending for that quarter. However, analyzing a social media ad performance in New York over a snowy weekend. Instead of falling as expected, the ad's click-through rates soared and so did sales figures.
- Impact: Ben & Jerry's determined that the demand for ice cream rose during poor weather. This discovery led Ben & Jerry's to begin watching weather forecasts, tweaking their ads for both sunny and rainy days to maximize sales opportunities.

December 8, 2023

DISADVANTAGES

- Saturation and Noise: High competition and a vast amount of content on social media can make it challenging to stand out.
- Negative Feedback and Viral Risks: Negative comments or controversies can quickly escalate and damage a brand's reputation.
- Algorithm Changes: Platforms frequently update their algorithms, affecting organic reach and necessitating paid advertising for visibility.
    - Comparing typical/potential reach across platform and content types.

DISADVANTAGES

- Snapchat is the most popular among Gen Z teens.
    - TikTok, Snapchat, and Instagram each draw roughly 80% of Gen Z social network users, but Snapchat draws a higher share of teens (ages 12 to 17) than adults (ages 18 to 24).
        - A majority of daily Snapchat users ages 16 and older don't use Twitter every day, and nearly half of them don't use TikTok either.
